

South America Was Brought To Rotary By Roger Loughran

Attorney Loughran Spent Several Years in Buenos Aires—His Address Proved Interesting And Descriptive.

A leisurely trip to South America with Buenos Aires the port of call, a trip of over 7,000 miles that took 35 days instead of the usual 19, was described to the members of the Rotary Club in the Governor Clinton Hotel Wednesday noon by Roger H. Loughran, Kingston lawyer, who spent four years there and who discussed the customs and characteristics of that South American city in a delightful and enjoyable fashion. Mr. Loughran explained in first beginning his talk that his purpose in going to Buenos Aires was a commercial one, but the boat trip developed into a pleasure cruise because of faulty engines and condenser trouble, a thing that bothered the speaker none at all, for his contract started the moment he left New York city, and the extra days spent in sailing proved fortunate rather than a handicap.

An unexpected stopover at the island of Barbados for repairs on the journey down took Mr. Loughran's ship to the west of her course, and gave him an opportunity of seeing the island. He described it as a clean, orderly country, 14 miles long and 21 miles long, with a population of about 200,000 people, mostly blacks.

Ten days of sailing south from Barbados brought the ship to the harbor of Rio de Janeiro, one of the most beautiful harbors in the world. Here the speaker went ashore, and went to the top of Sugar Loaf Mountain, the sight seeing haven of tourists. From the summit of this famous spot, one can view the harbor of Rio de Janeiro with its white breakers rolling into shore, and its background of light green mountains hemming in the city.

For more days at sea brought Mr. Loughran to Buenos Aires, where the water of the harbor is the color of copper, and the city itself a flat expanse of buildings, with numerous factory chimneys belching black smoke against the skyline. Buenos Aires, the speaker stated, is a city of about 3,000,000 people, highly industrialized, with foreigners doing most of the business. English, German and Turks run the shops and carry on the trading. The surrounding territory is devoted to cattle and horse raising, with most of the beef shipped to the continent.

In describing Buenos Aires, Mr. Loughran said that its first appearance from the harbor is deceiving, for what the city lacks in natural beauty is compensated by its wide streets, its fine public buildings, and its general layout. Here the Spanish language is spoken, and here Parisian fashions are displayed month after month. The dress of both men and women is severe, with black and other sombre shades predominating. Despite the intense heat during the summer months of December through March, men prefer to wear woolen clothing in preference to linens.

Although there is no prohibition law to deter drinking, alcohol is used very little by the population, and the heavy drinking is left to the Americans and the British. The speaker said that in the four years he was there, he had seen but two people drunk, one an American, the other an Englishman.

Prior to the talk of Mr. Loughran, President Alfred Schmid introduced Mrs. George V. D. Hutton to the members of the club. Mrs. Hutton stated that she came as a representative of the Junior League and called attention to the Junior League Revue to be held at the Broadway Theatre the evening of December 20. She asked the patronage and cooperation of the Rotary Club in order that the Junior League may carry on its charitable acts in the future.

"The Revue this year," said Mrs. Hutton, "promises to be even better than the one last year. Professional artists of note are in leading roles as well as many of Kingston's leading amateurs, and all of the people in the revue are donating their services. Proceeds from the production will go toward carrying on the Junior League Baby Clinic."

No U.S. Supreme Court Changes in Sight Now

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP)—No immediate changes in United States Supreme Court personnel are expected by persons in close touch with the high tribunal although four of the present members could retire.

These members are Justices Van Devanter, McReynolds, Brandeis, and Sutherland, two Democrats and two Republicans. Retirement on full pay is provided for these justices who have reached the age of seventy and have served ten years on a Federal bench.

Justice Brandeis became eligible November 12, 1926. Van Devanter on April 17, 1929; McReynolds on February 2, 1932; Sutherland on October 2, 1932.

All four, however, are in good health and seem to be thoroughly enjoying their work. They are prompt in their attendance at court sessions, deliver their share of opinions, and outwardly indicate no present intention of resigning.

Storms Nip Two Continents And Cause Havoc On Land And Sea

Eastern Seaboard of United States Mantled in Snow and Ice, With Forecasts For Continuation of the Cold Wave—17 Dead in England and 7 in France—More Than 55 Reported Dead in United States Snow and Low Temperatures in New York.

(By The Associated Press)

Biting blizzards nipped two continents today, causing havoc on land and sea.

In the United States, the eastern seaboard was mantled in snow and ice with weather forecasts for continuation of the cold that sent the mercury as low as 28 degrees below zero at Fort Fairfield, Maine, today.

A 70-mile an hour gale was responsible for 17 deaths in England. Twelve lost their lives when a cargo steamer was wrecked off the coast of East Suffolk.

Seven deaths were caused by the sub-zero cold and winds in France, where rivers were freezing and light snow falling.

A storm in the Black Sea sank the Spanish tanker Zarafa off Istanbul. Her crew was believed lost.

English Channel traffic was paralyzed by gales, while Atlantic shipping was suffering long delays.

A trans-channel airman, Vicomte Charles de Manville, missing since Tuesday, was still unreported.

In the United States the wintry-like weather that began earlier in the week held its grip yesterday, particularly in the east, where snow was predicted for today.

Three deaths in Cleveland and two in Baltimore attributed to the weather helped to swell the list of more than 50 previously reported dead.

California had its share of unusual weather. Los Angeles was recovering from the effects of floods, while heavy seas pounded the coast line near San Francisco. Seven hundred feet of snow in a temporary project was washed away.

Sacramento reported that an 80-foot snowslide across the line of the Southern Pacific at Floriston in the Sierra Nevada mountains had forced the routing of traffic over a parallel track.

Snow and Low Temperatures.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 14 (AP)—Winter held all New York state in its icy grip today with both snow and low temperatures prevailing.

Oswegatchie, in the northern section, reported 15 below zero, the lowest temperature, while at Watertown the reading was 10 below.

Other below zero temperatures were: Lowville, five; Carthage, six; Philadelphia, seven; Ogdensburg, four; Saranac Lake, five.

It was 13 above zero at Buffalo and Rochester at 8 a. m., with 4 1/2 inches of snow on the ground and the forecast calling for a continuation today and tomorrow. From four to six inches of snow was general throughout the state.

Saranac Lake and the Adirondacks reported the greatest amount of snow, from five to seven inches, in the past 24 hours, but roads and highways were open.

Linking the three communication fields into a semblance of unity even now are these factors: Lease of telephone wires to telegraph companies and the Radio Corporation, and lease of telegraph wires to the latter.

Whether this community of interests might be used as a basis for bringing all three systems into one governmentally supervised service will not be determined until the interdepartmental committee's report has been carefully scrutinized by Chairman Dill (D-Wash.) of the Senate and Chairman Rayburn (D-Tex.) of the house interstate commerce committee. These committees would handle any measure looking toward a communication merger.

The interdepartmental committee has not yet made final recommendations, but leans toward the view that a monopoly under strict government regulation is preferable to outright government ownership of communications or continuation of present conditions.

The legislation demanding a communication unification will be proposed in the impending session of congress is taken for granted. Whether it will have administration backing is the question.

United States Found Guilty of Impeding Recovery in Wheat

Negotiators Find Operation of the Pacific Northwest Emergency Export Association in the United States a Depressing Factor.

(Copyright, 1933, by The Associated Press.)

London, Dec. 14 (AP)—The United States is among the countries the International Wheat Marketing Committee has found guilty of placing obstacles in the way of world-wide recovery in that commodity.

While Americans have taken the lead in efforts being made in meetings here to raise the wheat price level, it was learned today the negotiators find operation of the Pacific Northwest Emergency Export Association in the United States a depressing factor.

The organization, which operates in Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana, was listed by the delegates as among the subsidies which are defeating chances of success through any remedial measures.

The committee, a part of the world wheat commission set up last summer when export quotas were set for the major producing nations, is making an exhaustive investigation of all direct and indirect subsidies in an effort to determine whether schemes suggested here for the improvement of the world market are workable.

Wire-Radio Merger Amusing Scenes to Wouldn't Bring Many Appear for Junior Changes, Says Officials League Revue, Dec. 20

Report Suggesting Consolidation Under Federal Supervision Studied Carefully—No Denial That Action Would Encounter Obstacles.

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP)—The proposed welding of national communication facilities into a single, integrated system appeared to administration officials today to call for fewer epochal changes than the significance of such a step would indicate.

As a report suggesting consolidation under federal supervision, made to President Roosevelt by an interdepartmental committee, was studied carefully in interested administration quarters, there was no denial that such action would encounter formidable obstacles.

But attention was directed toward a virtual monopoly already existing in telephony and to previous careful consideration of unification by some of powerful companies in other communication fields.

Anti-trust laws prevent an absolute monopoly at present in telephony, radio and telegraphy, but have not stopped a consolidation. Competition has been preserved, yet there has been a distinct interweaving of facilities.

American Telephone and Telegraph Company dominates telephony communication, controlling with its investment of some $4,000,000, 000 all but a small percentage of the nearly 20,000,000 telephones in the country.

Western Union and Postal Telegraph occupy almost alone the domain of telegraphy. Radio Corporation of America, with its subsidiaries, is outstanding in the one remaining medium.

Linking the three communication fields into a semblance of unity even now are these factors: Lease of telephone wires to telegraph companies and the Radio Corporation, and lease of telegraph wires to the latter.

Whether this community of interests might be used as a basis for bringing all three systems into one governmentally supervised service will not be determined until the interdepartmental committee's report has been carefully scrutinized by Chairman Dill (D-Wash.) of the Senate and Chairman Rayburn (D-Tex.) of the house interstate commerce committee. These committees would handle any measure looking toward a communication merger.

The interdepartmental committee has not yet made final recommendations, but leans toward the view that a monopoly under strict government regulation is preferable to outright government ownership of communications or continuation of present conditions.

The legislation demanding a communication unification will be proposed in the impending session of congress is taken for granted. Whether it will have administration backing is the question.

Upstate Cities Have No Ban on Parking

Troy Began Idea With Promise of No Red Tag For Christmas Shoppers—Albany Meets Competition With Same Plan.

Recently Troy merchants caused advertisements to be displayed stating that during the Christmas holiday season automobiles need fear no red tags from the police for parking violation as such rules were suspended until Christmas. Now comes Albany with a similar proposition to meet the up river competition.

Albany's reply is a statement by Mayor Thatcher that shoppers in fact downtown section of Albany will not be molested for parking in non-parking zones. Even double parking in streets wide enough to prevent congestion has been sanctioned. In fact all parking regulations are off until after Christmas except the rule which prohibits blocking fire plugs.

Motorists in Albany need no longer ponder of the parking proposition while doing their Christmas shopping. The suspension of parking rules in downtown Albany is the reply of the Retail Merchants' Association and the Albany Chamber of Commerce to Troy's open arm welcome and "run no risk of red tags" slogan to shoppers.

Bride-to-be Burned Fatally as Fire Sweeps Entire Realty Block

Troy Girl Whose Marriage Was Scheduled Today Trapped in Blazing Apartment—Flame, Unconscious, Taken to Hospital—Firemen Carry Seven Down Ladders.

Pittsfield, Mass., Dec. 14 (AP)—The burned body of Miss Mary Burns, 20-year-old Troy, N. Y., girl, was found today in the ruins of the fire-swept Star Realty Company block on North street.

Miss Burns, who was to have been married today at Stepienstown, N. Y., had been visiting the parents of her fiancé, Nelson La Fontaine, who was from the building firemen in an unconscious condition.

Seven persons, occupants of top-floor apartments, were carried to safety over ladders. Four of them, including La Fontaine, were taken to a hospital suffering from smoke inhalation.

Firemen searched the ruins several hours before finding Miss Burns' body. She had been seen last stepping away from a window on the fourth floor. The roof of the structure fell in shortly after and it was some time later before firemen could make their way into the destroyed building.

Those at the hospital, beside La Fontaine, were Mrs. Viola Wilmer, her daughter, Pauline, 14, and her son, Clarence, 16. Their conditions were not serious.

The fire was believed to have started in a dancing school on the second floor of the four story brick building; the cause was unknown. Loss was estimated at $300,000—$150,000 to the building and another $150,000 to the contents.

The blaze began shortly before midnight, gained headway quickly and by three o'clock this morning the block of apartments and business offices lay in smoldering ruins.

Treasury Receipts.

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP)—The position of the treasury December 12 was: Receipts, $13,824,367.19; expenditures, $17,324,546.45; balance, $1,012,412,620.40; customs receipts, $1,012,412,620.40; $1,012,412,620.40.

Receipts for the fiscal year since July 1 were $1,270,643,539.44; expenditures, $2,146,428,515.02 including $857,135,247.57 emergency expenditures; excess of expenditures, $875,384,975.58.

6 Children Killed, 18 Injured When Train Hits School Bus

Tragedy Occurred at Silver Pond Grove Crossing in Florida, Just After Picking Up the Last of the Children On Its Route—Bus Driver Reported To Have Crossed the Track in a Heavy Morning Fog—The Dead and Injured.

Crescent City, Fla., Dec. 14 (AP)—Six elementary school children were killed, another was reported to have died en route to a hospital, and at least 18 others were injured, many critically, when a freight train crashed into a school bus six miles south of here this morning.

The dead: William Smith, 12; Evelyn Smith, 9, and Frederick Smith, children of Mrs. Benjie Smith, a widow. Merle Smith, 16, member of the same family, was reported to have died while enroute to a hospital.

Hazel McGrady, 13, and Eddie McGrady, 10, children of Drew McGrady. Nellie McGrady, of the same family, was reported seriously injured.

Elsie Bertha Gorton, 15, D. R. Niles, an elderly man who drove the bus, was injured but a physician said his condition was not critical, although serious.

There was a probability others of the injured would die. Seven ambulances from Orlando, Deland, Palatka and Crescent City rushed to the scene, hurriedly loaded and rushed away to hospitals. Most of the injured were taken to Palatka.

The tragedy occurred at Silver Pond Grove crossing, six miles south of here, just after picking up the last of the children on its route. The injured taken to the Palatka Hospital were:

Joseph King, 11, numerous cuts, full extent injuries undetermined. Violet Hogg, 13, head wounds, and expected to die.

Thomas Freeman, 12, unconscious and expected to die. Nellie McGrady, scalp wounds and bruises.

Phillip Owen, 13, internal injuries. William Hogg, 17, possible broken back.

Louise Hardy, fracture of knee. Helena Norton, 15, badly bruised. Willard Owen, 11, leg injuries, possible amputation, condition critical.

Henrietta King, 16, internal injuries, possible concussion of brain, unconscious.

An unidentified boy believed to be Harry Smith, condition critical. Niles had reached the end of his route which extends five miles south of here to Silver Pond Grove when the crash came. He had just driven from the main highway, state road No. 3, about 100 yards to the home of Rupert Teuton to pick up Teuton's two children.

Teuton had constructed a turning place so that it was not necessary for the school bus to cross the railroad tracks, it was said, but Niles crossed the track today in a heavy morning fog.

Greatest confusion prevailed when the dead and injured first were rushed here. The Rev. Walter B. Knight, pastor of the Baptist Church, converted his parsonage into an emergency hospital, while the overflow of injured was taken to the offices of Dr. E. W. Ford, nearby.

All the children lived in the rural district traversed by the school bus route. Sad scenes were enacted as hysterical mothers and anxious fathers, stunned by the news of the tragedy, hunted their loved ones.

Engineer R. A. Howell said the train was proceeding north and the bus was traveling south. The highway parallels the railroad for a considerable distance and Howell said the bus driver made a left turn directly in front of the train at the crossing.

Howell said the crash happened at 7:45 o'clock in a heavy fog. He said, however, that the highway was only about 75 feet from the railroad track and the visibility for that distance and further was good and the bus driver should have been able to see the approaching train.

The train crashed into the bus broadside at just about the rear wheel of the vehicle.

Woman Is Found Dead, Police Hunt Gangster

Former Material Witness in Murder Case Found Strangled—Neighbors Tell of Quarrel—Signs of Struggle in Room.

New York, Dec. 14 (AP)—Police looked to the underworld today to find a solution for the slaying of an attractive young woman found strangled in her West Side apartment yesterday.

With the disclosure that the woman, Mrs. Margie Paley Clichock, had been held as a material witness in the killing of an ex-convict for which two gangsters were sent to Sing Sing, police believed she was slain by friends of the convicted man or by a third man implicated in the convict murder.

Mrs. Clichock, 26 years old, who came here from Shabazz, Pa., was found on her bed with her neck tightly strangled with a piece of white cord. A pillow had been pushed down over her face and the room showed signs of a struggle.

Wednesday the ambulance removed Mrs. Walter S. Beatty from 316 Lucas avenue to the Kingston Hospital; Mrs. Frank D. Dewey from the Kingston Hospital to her home, 102 West Chestnut street, and Mrs. E. B. Bishop from 121 Fair street to the Kingston Hospital.

Our Growing Population.

The following births have been reported to the board of health: Mr. and Mrs. Howard Whitaker, 91 DeWitt street, a daughter, Anna Helen.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Morris of 43 Cedar street, a son, John Nicholas, at Kingston Hospital.

Union College to Try New Entrance Policy

New York, Dec. 14 (AP).—The Union College plan will free the secondary school curricula from college domination by reducing the specific admission requirements to a minimum. Dr. Edward Ellery, acting president of the college, said here today explaining the workings of the new system which becomes effective next September.

Although an entering student will be required to be a graduate in good standing from a secondary school and to have completed 15 units of work, Union will no longer demand that every boy offer practically the same 15 units, Dr. Ellery said.

The chief reason for reducing the number of specific entrance requirements, he declared, is the fact that it is impossible to fit all boys into the same mould.

To enter Union College, beginning next September, he said, "a boy must first present a recommendation from his school principal. Such recommendation involves more than scholastic standing. It gives an idea of the boy's ability and interest in scholastic work, and an indication of his intelligence and character. Second, the applicant must show that he has completed at least 15 units of school work, but, with very limited exceptions, those 15 units are no longer definitely prescribed in advance."

In brief, concluded Dr. Ellery, "the Union plan will try as far as possible to maintain a 'hands off' policy toward secondary school curriculum."

There are 24 children of all grades in the school, all of whom will take an active part in the evening's work under the direction of the teacher, Miss Yetta Stoll. Following the program, refreshments will be served, these being contributed by the children's parents. Hiram Walker & Sons, Inc.

AN AMERICAN INSTITUTION

NOW BUILDING THE WORLD'S LARGEST DISTILLERY AT PEORIA, ILLINOIS

During the past 75 years, the distilled products of Hiram Walker & Sons have been favored with a wide popularity in the United States. Everywhere, the name of "Canadian Club" whisky is accepted as the symbol of quality in the highest degree.

The accomplishment of Repeal found Hiram Walker & Sons in the process of establishment on American soil as an American institution.

The people of this nation, we believe, crossed off the 18th Amendment because they regard Repeal as one of the great instruments for the return of national prosperity.

As the beginning of Hiram Walker & Sons' support of the effort working toward that objective, we are now erecting at Peoria, Illinois, the largest distillery ever built in the world, at an investment of $4,000,000.

Until this huge project is completed, we have two temporary plants at Peoria, operating with every leisurely process which contributes to the traditional goodness of Hiram Walker products.

Every year the Hiram Walker plant at Peoria will require millions of dollars' worth of American products. Farmers will find an annual outlet for some 6,000,000 bushels of their grain. Mines will ship us 350 tons of coal per day. Bottles, boxes, labels, and so on, will be required each year by the millions.

When Hiram Walker & Sons' distillery, the largest one in the world, is completed, it will employ 1,000 workers at Peoria, Illinois, and many others in large wholesale branches throughout the country. Hiram Walker & Sons will pay into the Treasury of the United States, through collection of taxes, more than $30,000,000 per year.

Quality is the basis on which the Hiram Walker business was founded in 1858. For 75 years it has been made the inflexible rule in every Hiram Walker process. It is the all-pervading principle of the new American business now in its beginnings. Your guarantee of quality and purity which you can trust is the Hiram Walker name, favorably known the world around.

Today, "Canadian Club" whisky—each bottle bearing a government stamp to indicate its age and purity—and all other Hiram Walker products can be purchased wherever the law permits liquor to be offered for sale—but not elsewhere with our knowledge or consent. Thus we pledge ourselves to sincere co-operation in the strict observance of the spirit as well as the letter of the law, and the temperate use of our products.

Mayor Carey Cut The Cheese Today

This week is "Cheese Week" throughout the country, and this morning representatives of the Kraft cheese called at the city hall and invited Mayor Eugene B. Carey to take part in the celebration of the week by cutting a two-pound Kraft Giant Loaf American cheese.

The huge cheese was carried in to the mayor's office by two men and placed on a table and while the mayor was cutting a generous slab from the cheese a picture of the event was taken.

The cheese was presented to Mayor Carey by H. O. Shaw, the local representative of the Kraft cheese, and Mayor Carey decided that he would distribute the cheese among the needy families of the city.

Mayor Carey called up Max Abel, the Hasbrouck avenue butcher and grocer, and Mr. Abel kindly consented to take the cheese and cut it and wrap it in half pound packages. These half pound packages will then be turned over to the home relief office and distributed to needy families at the time they are given a food slip.

Business Girls Held A Christmas Party

The Business Girls' Club of the Y. W. C. A. held a short Christmas party following their supper at the Y. W. C. A. Wednesday evening. The assembly hall was gay with Christmas decorations and a very beautiful Christmas tree, handsomely decorated and lighted. Christmas carols were sung and a turkey supper was served. The girls and was fully appreciated. The president, Miss Helen Bryant, on behalf of the girls, heartily thanked Miss Bertha Magee, the guest of honor, for the evening and the donor of the tree, for her most generous gift. Mrs. Eddings had charge of the program, assisted by Miss Elias. There was an appropriate reading by Mrs. Taylor and a soprano solo by Mrs. Fred Williams, both greatly enjoyed by the girls. On the table were cards attached to the place cards, each one of which contained the fortune of the girl whose card it was. Pulling the card out to read it, there came also tied at the other end of the cord, a Christmas gift. It was when the gifts were opened that the fun began in earnest. But the fun will go right on, for the girls all turned in their gifts for the Christmas giving to needy children, which is the Christmas responsibility as well as privilege of the Business Girls' Club each year. Next week, the Business Girls will spend the time following the usual supper in getting the gifts assembled ready for distribution.

Chick Chandler Makes Most of 'Blood Money'

Kingston Boy Bound For Movie Fame Appearing in Second Important Role at Kingston Theatre.

Chick Chandler, Kingston boy, who went to Hollywood and landed a part in "Melody Cruise" which won him screen honors, is now appearing in his second important part in a film at the Kingston Theatre, playing the juvenile lead in George Bancroft's "Blood Money."

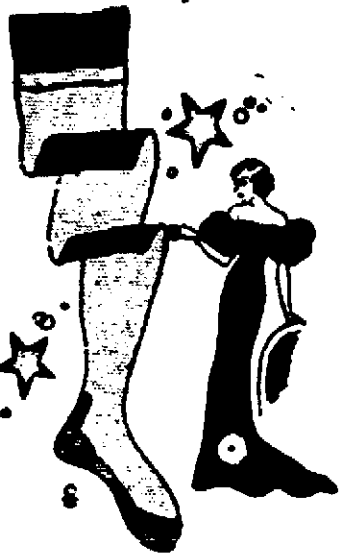

Chick, who is the son of Dr. George F. Chandler of Kingston, in this picture plays the role of a young bank bandit, Drury, and does remarkably well. Prior to his Hollywood adventure, he played on the vaudeville and musical comedy stage. Those who know young Chandler remember him as a care free individual, full of pranks, and having a great gift for humorous situations. Many times on the links of the Twelfthskill Club when playing with other young men of the town, he would provoke such laughter with his antics and remarks, that the serious side of a game would become submerged in an attempt to match skill against his humor, skill generally suffering defeat.

In "Blood Money" his happy-go-lucky nature is apparent, which with his acting ability gains for him another victory in his struggle to Witness (who was a Civil Engineer)—You are right. I am a workman, sir.

Lawyer—Familiar with the use of the pick, shovel, and spade, I presume?

Witness—To some extent. Those are not the principal implements of my trade, though.

Lawyer—Perhaps you will condescend to enlighten me as to your principal implements?

Witness—It is hardly worth while. You don't understand the nature of their use.

Lawyer (offhandedly)—Probably not, but I insist on knowing what they are.

Witness—Brains.

Christina, the Christmas Doll

by Sigrid Arne

SYNOPSIS: Christina, a doll that Mrs. Santa made, is stolen from Toyland by a witch. The doll's playmate, a woolly dog, is left behind. He wears a collar with magic powers.

CHAPTER IV

The Helpful Fairies

There was great excitement in Toyland. You remember, a little witch had stolen the pretty rag doll, Christina. The two had disappeared up the chimney in a cloud of smoke.

The tiny fairies tried to follow, but the fire on the hearth singed their wings. The white woolly dog tried to peek up the chimney, but the hot coals burned his paws.

Santa heard the noise and came running with all the toy soldiers he had in his hurry. Mrs. Santa ran in with her spectacles tumbling off her nose.

"Oh, and that was my special doll," she bewailed.

"Never mind, we'll find her," comforted Santa. "We all love her so much."

"G-g-g-rrrr!" said the white woolly dog up the chimney.

So there was a big meeting called in the Toyshop.

"Why, we don't even know what chimney-witch it was," moaned the fairies. "There are many of them. How will we find this particular one?"

"We'll just break up loose here," said the fairies. So Santa reached up and broke off the icicles and laid them on the window ledge. Suddenly they all stood up, a whole group of little, silver fairies.

"We can peek in all the windows where we hang," they said. "We'll find Christina."

Then the wind blew a whole puff of snow into the room, and where it fell there jumped up six little snow fairies.

"We blow up and down chimney-necks," they said. "We'll hunt, too."

So the ice fairies and the snow fairies were off in a twinkling and all the Toyshop people stood in the door and watched them disappear in the sky.

SLEEPING BABY IN STOLEN MOTOR CAR
FRIGHTENS THIEFRobber Abandons Auto, Calls
Police and Escapes Before They Arrive.

Newark, N. J.—Hugh Sweeney is a practical man and had no hesitations in taking his wife and first of their children sleeping in the motor car, although he had dreamed the night before that the car had been stolen. Mr. Sweeney has the car a good while and it wasn't long when he bought it. He didn't think it likely that anyone would steal it and never gave his dream another thought.

He parked in front of a shoe store and got out with Mrs. Sweeney, Hugh, Jr., who is seven years old; Anna, Eva, and Richard, three. They left Mary Hilda asleep on the back seat. She is only two months old and her shoes have not become a problem. The shoe store was crowded and Mr. Sweeney decided to let his wife get the children's shoes.

Deaths and Injuries.

He sauntered to a candy shop, whose proprietor was in the doorway, and began negotiations with him for the purchase of a small glass telephone instrument filled with pink and white candy. It would be just the thing, Mr. Sweeney thought, to take home to Peter, eight years old, who wasn't getting any new shoes. The price was more than he wanted to pay, however, so he gave up his dicker and started back to his car.

To his amazement, it was not where he had left it, nor was it anywhere in sight. The candy man replied somewhat gruffly to Mr. Sweeney's panicky inquiries that he hadn't even seen a car standing there, intimating strong doubts that a man who bagged over a glass telephone had a car anyhow.

In his perturbation, Mr. Sweeney ignored the insult and rushed into the crowded shoe store with the vague idea that somehow Mrs. Sweeney had got the car and Mary Hilda inside. He shouted his inquiry to Mrs. Sweeney and she replied with some asperity that she had neither the car nor the baby. Then, realizing the extent of the calamity, she became as anxious as Mr. Sweeney and rushed to the street, accompanied by Hugh and Anna and Richard, each with one shoe off, and, presently by all the customers and clerks.

Not a sign of the car nor of Mary Hilda could anyone discover and the police were notified.

May Be the Thief Himself.

The alarm was broadcast by teletype and twenty police cars began scouring the city for Mary Hilda and the stolen car. They still were hard at it when, about twenty minutes after the search began, a man telephoned to Lieut. Frank Appel at the Sixth Precinct police station. He was highly agitated.

"You know that car with the baby in it that was stolen?" he inquired. "Well, it's parked at Norfolk street and Thirteenth avenue."

He hung up before further information could be elicited and is thought to have been the thief himself, who had just discovered that a red-haired baby was snoring peacefully in the rear seat of the car.

Police cars with sirens screeching converged from all points upon Norfolk street and Thirteenth avenue, a dozen blocks from the shoe store, and there, despite the tumult, they found Mary Hilda still sound asleep in the rear seat of Mr. Sweeney's car. Everybody made much of her and, she gurgled and smiled in response, so relieving the heart of Mr. Sweeney that he went back and got the glass telephone, regardless of expense.

"Who would have dreamed that our car would be stolen?" demanded Mrs. Sweeney and Mr. Sweeney acknowledged somewhat sheepishly that he had.

Gun-Firers Are Detected
by Wax Casts of Hands

Milwaukee—Milwaukee's police department has adopted a new method in criminal investigation whereby a person who has fired a gun can be detected by chemical analysis of a wax cast of his hands.

The idea was adopted following a visit made to the city by Teodoro Gonzalez, assistant director of the bureau of criminal investigation, Mexico City. The basis of the test is that the discharge of a shell leaves microscopic particles of powder on the skin of the hands. Melted paraffin is poured over the hand of the suspected person, removed when hard and subjected to chemical analysis. If the hand on which the mold is taken has fired a gun, traces of the nitrate base of powder will show up in the analysis.

The method is expected to prove particularly valuable in cases of questionable suicide.

Mule Pines to Death When Its Teammate Succumbs

Grantville, Md.—This little Maryland town mourns a mule which died of a broken heart, according to its many friends.

Maud, property of Samuel Wright, hauled everything from plows to wagons with her teammate, Minnie. Last month Minnie died of old age. Maud, a much younger animal, then ceased to kick and bray. Within a week she refused hay and oats and even forgot to kick at tempting dashboards and fences, Wright reported.

One morning Wright went to the stable to get Maud. She was dead.

FASHIONS By ELEANOR GUNN

Gifts She'd Love to Have

(Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild.)

Top left, the gold sequin kerchief. Top right, the feather flower sequin. Lower left, the velvet scarf lined in simple ribbed satin. At the left, the velvet necklace in bright color with three strands of colored clear beads. In the center, the velvet hat with metal cord. Right, the flat collar of mirrors. At the top, the rhinestone small stars.

The Gaudet Sleeve Is Provocative

New York—Among the prettiest of the present fashions, is the gaudet sleeve, illustrated here in a frock which is intended for dancing under the palm trees and all that sort of thing. Why? Well, probably because it is developed in one of the new prints, and one just naturally associates prints with tropical or summer heat. The model would be lovely in lace which is timely north or south.

But to return to the gaudet sleeve, and its provocative bare shoulder. It is offered in many shapes most of which, however, flare at the top. The long sleeved dinner dress is almost an old story but it is one that bears repeating. There isn't a ghost of a chance of it becoming passé.

If it seems incongruous to wear long sleeves and trailing skirts, it is just because we are not thoroughly in the modern spirit which is, that we take what we like from all periods melding even conflicting things, so that they fit in with our needs. And the long sleeved dinner dress, especially with hotel dining come back, has a definite place in social life.

In planning a sleeved dinner gown, be sure to make the sleeves important enough to justify their existence. They very often contrast with the dress itself, being brilliant with embroidery or spangles or of lace or something that is a distinct addition to the ensemble.

A type of dress which speaks for itself is the one with a matching or contrasting top of lace or embroidery. It is the newest interpretation of the ever popular light-above type of dress and fits in perfectly with the revived shirtwaist—and skirt costume.

A HOLIDAY PRINT

(Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild.)

A multicolor print is chosen for a gown with long glove-like sleeves having interesting pleated detail, the pleated treatment repeated at the back of the skirt, forming a train. The velvet grille reflects the Empire blue shade that is found in the print.

AGRICULTURE

The supply of seed oats in New York state is short.

Uncle Ab says we are too prone to do our thinking with our pocket-books instead of with our heads.

Good legume hay should make up ten to fifteen per cent of the winter rations of brood sows.

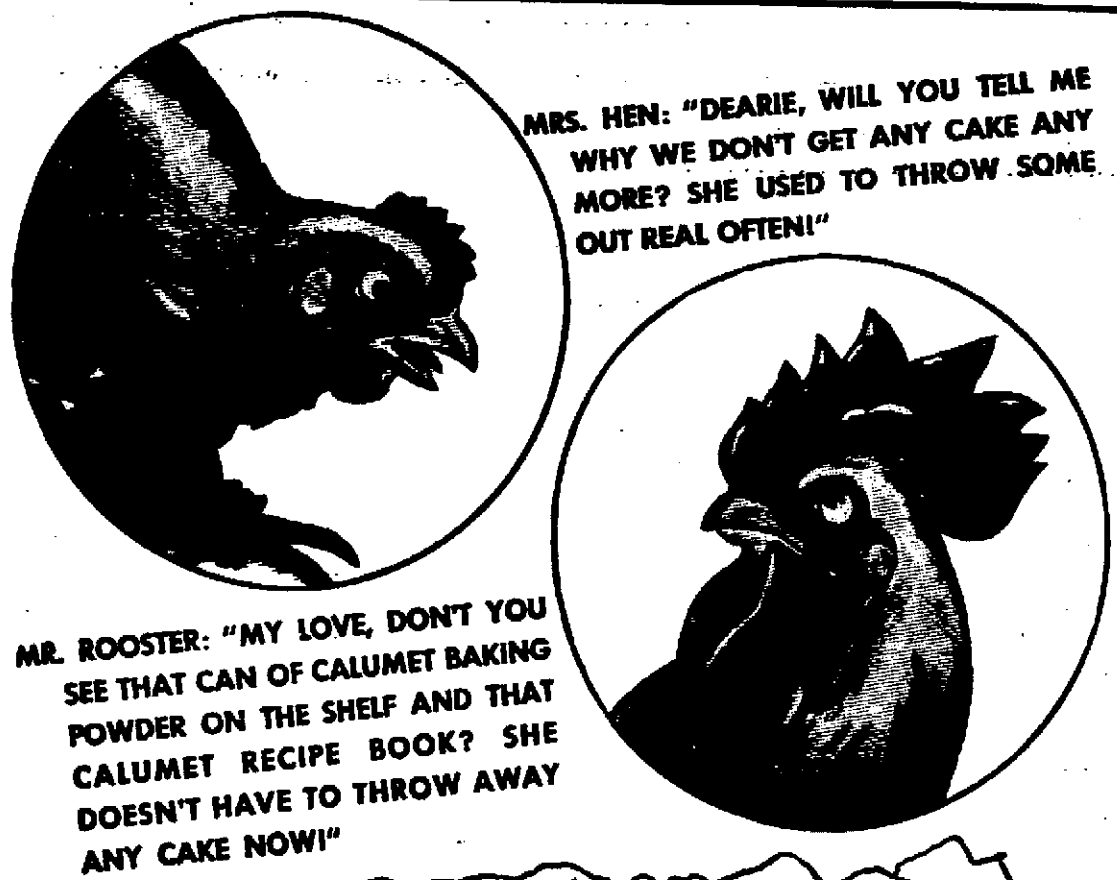

Bottles of liquid honey and sections of comb honey wrapped in cellophane and placed in neat packages make excellent Christmas presents.

G. S. Cowles and Son, Ben Pringle, Clayton White, and other breeders of Chautauque county have recently organized a bull association.

A catalogue of new fruits suitable for growing in New York state may be obtained on request from the New York state agricultural experiment station at Geneva.

A fourteen-hour day—of daylight and artificial light combined—will keep the pullets thrifty by lengthening the daily feeding period. Morning or evening lights, or low-powered all-night lights, are satisfactory.

Calumet always depend upon Calumet Baking Powder to give successful results. The remarkable texture will be a revelation to you. The "velvety crumb" of Calumet cakes—the delicate fluffiness of Calumet biscuits and muffins—are the result of perfectly controlled Double-Action.

The first action takes place in the mixing bowl—but the second is held in reserve to act in the heat of the oven. It is the two actions, so well-balanced and sure, that make all Calumet baking rise to such beautiful, even lightness.

Notice the thrifty small proportion called for in Calumet recipes—usually only one level teaspoon to a cup of sifted flour. Much less than with many baking powders. Thanks to Calumet's efficient Double-Action—a little goes a long way!

Ribbon Cake—(3 eggs)

3 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
3 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
2/3 cup butter or other shortening
1 1/2 cups sugar
3 egg yolks, well beaten
1 cup milk
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten

1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon cloves
1/4 teaspoon mace
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1 1/2 tablespoons molasses
1/2 cup raisins, finely cut
1/2 cup figs, finely cut

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly; add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks and beat well. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Fold in egg whites. Fill two greased 9-inch layer pans with two-thirds of mixture. To remaining mixture, add spices, molasses, and fruit, and pour into one greased 9-inch layer pan. Bake layers in moderate oven (375° F.) 25 minutes. Arrange spice layer between light layers. Spread red currant jelly between layers and boiled frosting on top and sides of cake. (All measurements are level.)

The bearers were Charles Snyder, Frank Volk, Charles Snyder, Jr. and William Newburg. The interment was made in the family plot in St. Peter's cemetery, where the Rev. Father Herdegen gave the final absolution as the body was lowered to its final resting place.

HOCKEY PLAYER FIGHTS
DEATH, SKULL FRACTURED

Boston, Dec. 14 (AP).—Irving "Ace" Bailey, 31-year-old Toronto hockey player, clung tenaciously to life today and Dr. Martin Crotty, physician for the Boston club, said it was Bailey's superb physical condition that was his chief hope to survive a fractured skull suffered in a game Tuesday night.

Bailey was at the Audubon Hospital, his condition unchanged from last night, when it was considered "critical."

Doctors Give Creosote
For Dangerous Coughs

For many years our best doctors have prescribed creosote in some form for coughs, colds and bronchitis, knowing how dangerous it is to let them hang on. Creosolene with creosote and six other highly important medicinal elements, quickly and effectively stops all coughs and colds that otherwise might lead to serious trouble.

Creosolene is powerful in the treatment of all colds and coughs, yet it is absolutely harmless and is pleasant and easy to take. Your own druggist guarantees Creosolene by refunding your money if you are not relieved after taking Creosolene as directed. Beware the cough or cold that hangs on. Always keep Creosolene on hand for instant use. (Adv.)

Flash of Life
Sketched in Brief(By The Associated Press.)
New Out of Twenty-nine.

New London, Wis.—Philip Williams, 32, and his wife, 40, are celebrating the arrival of their twenty-ninth child, a girl. They have had three sets of twins, five children were born in one year when triplets and twins arrived, only nine of the children are alive.

The Women Score.

Madison, Wis.—The annual University of Wisconsin gridiron football game, once considered a gathering for men only, has gone feminine in character after a trial of woman attendance last year. Betty Jean Daniel, Watertown, has been named to preside at the 1933 event.

The NRA Men.

Yarmouth, Nova Scotia. James Purdy's hen must have heard about the NRA, or something. About three times a week she speeds up production and lays an egg with two yolks. Today James is showing the neighbors a huge egg, big as an ostrich's, which he says the hen laid yesterday.

At Last It's Done.

Kenosha, Wis.—The CWA chapter has finished a job which women 55 years ago were unable to accomplish. With the aid of modern equipment, the public works employees placed a huge, eight-ton stone, bearing the inscription, "Erected A. D. 1870," on the top of a court house annex built in the last century.

It's Still Missing.

Chicago—Miss Lillian Murray, who had charge of the World's Fair lost and found department, revealed that among the articles turned in were these:

Fifteen sets of false teeth, a false eye, and half pint of whiskey.

The teeth and the eye were returned to their owners.

"I don't know what became of the bottle of whiskey," she said.

White.

Keokuk, Iowa—Mose Dye, a Montrose, Iowa, hunter and trapper reported the capture of two white skunks, which are reputed to be just about as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth.

Lucky Break.

Pittsburgh—Aspinwall police found a man unconscious in the shadow of a building. They took him to a hospital, figuring there was something wrong with him. There was. Hospital attaches found a piece of rope around his neck, concealed by his coat collar.

Returning to the building officers found the rest of the rope dangling from a fire escape. Leonard Groszki, 55, told them the rope broke, halting a suicide attempt.

Home For Aged Family
Highly Entertained

Wednesday evening the ladies who make up the family at the Home for the Aged were highly entertained and greatly delighted by Fred Van Buren who gave one of his most brilliant sleight-of-hand performances. The only trouble was that the evening was all too soon over, but it was a fine entertainment to celebrate the Christmas merriment.

Venus' Season
The earth whirled around the sun completely once every twelve months. Venus takes about eight months to complete its orbit. Therefore, if it rotates on its axis as it spins around the sun, its seasons would be proportionately shorter.

Cool Bandit Gang Robs Kingston Shops Now Bank of $100,000 Are Open Evenings

Work All Afternoon Yesterday With Sledges And Chains Trying Open Deposit Boxes—Armed With Live Wire Radio Set—Overpower Five People.

Chicago, Dec. 14 (AP).—Security and valuables were not in danger to be worth from $50,000 to $100,000 were missing today after the forcing of 54 safety deposit boxes in the closed Unity Trust and Savings Bank by a gang of seven bandits in a daylight robbery.

It was early yesterday afternoon that three of the gunmen appeared at the vaults, kept open for the convenience of holders of boxes, and overpowered the attendant, Joseph Kline.

All afternoon they worked swinging sledge hammers and applying cold chisels as they forced open one box after another and extracted the contents.

They apparently had little fear of police detection, for among their equipment was a low wave radio receiving set, which when hooked up in the bank basement, permitted them to listen in on all local police calls.

Rock Oak Blight
Shelton, Dec. 14.—A blight similar to that which destroyed the chestnut trees 20 years ago is now found on the rock oaks of the reservoir country. The fungus, which has been observed on fairly large trees, appears to be partial to the upper trunk and branches. Diseased specimens are the more easily discovered because of the dense mass of spores showing below the wound. The black oak is known to be a carrier of the blight and it is possible that through this tree the spores have been transferred to the rock, or chestnut oak.

"—SAVE IN HIS OWN COUNTRY"

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

W HEN Bennie Markham was twenty-five he was a young man of about twenty years of age, and he was at that time a general store at Maplewood, and he was the owner of a small store at that time. He was a young man of about twenty years of age, and he was at that time a general store at Maplewood, and he was the owner of a small store at that time.

There was, for example, late Ripley, who wanted to operate the local garage. It didn't seem to Bennie there could possibly be any one anywhere who could make more than a living.

You could not find any kind of question about anything, and he had an answer to answer that was logical and satisfying too.

He had a deep resonant voice, and possessed a natural bent for story telling, which fact added a convincing note to his talk.

And then there was Bert Morgan, the barber, a young fellow, a fellow that a man who didn't shave once a day or who let his hair grow over his ears, was a criminal.

When Bert got through talking you most always felt that the most noble ambition a man could possess was to become a good barber.

There was also Joel Ruggles, owner of the general store, who, by his very silence became in the eyes of Bennie a wise and awe inspiring figure. And there was Marty Dolan, a Spanish war veteran, who had an edge on the others because he'd fought at San Juan hill and could command attention by referring to that memorable battle in a most impressive manner, which he did at frequent intervals.

These men talked and young Bennie listened.

Frequently they directed their conversation to him, in a sort of patronizing manner, for Bennie was an appreciative listener and displayed no little amount of flattery at thus being addressed.

These men to him were gods to be imitated, if possible; to be admired and respected and honored.

In fact Bennie came to believe that if ever he could acquire a fraction of the knowledge with which each was invested, or achieve a small part of the success which each had achieved in his respective line, he would ask no more of life.

Bennie believed these things for a period of two years. And during that time he guiltily nursed a secret ambition.

In spite of the deep impression made upon him by the sages of Ruggles' general store, Bennie wanted to become an artist. A painter.

He felt rather guilty about it; would never for the world have admitted the nature of his secret desire to Life or Bert or any of the others.

He knew they'd laugh and scoff at him, and that would hurt. Unfortunately for Bennie's general store career, however, the craving to become an artist persisted.

It was in him rather larger than a woodchuck.

And the youngster's father, Robert Markham, president of the local bank, a kindly, gentle-natured, taciturn man, and hence somewhat mediocre compared with Life and Bert, chanced upon a couple of Bennie's free-hand drawings one day and that evening had a heart-to-heart talk with his son.

The upshot of the conference was that Bennie was to go away to school; an art school, there to develop the natural talent which his dad believed he possessed, and seemed to be quite proud of.

Bennie agreed to go, in fact was quite eager about the idea, but he asked his father not to tell anyone what he was up to, especially not to mention it when he was getting a shave or having his car fixed.

And so Bennie, still feeling rather guilty and ashamed when he thought of Life and Bert and Joel, went away to school and began to study art.

It wasn't long before Maplewood and the general store wisdoms became remote and hazy in his memory.

The natural talent which had begun to assert itself years before was being cultivated, and the results were rather pleasantly surprising, even to Bennie.

Bennie remained at art school for five years, returning during that time to Maplewood at long intervals, and then only for short visits.

He developed fast, displaying an uncanny gift for the creation of original ideas and setting them down on paper in the form of drawings.

The natural talent was polished and groomed to a degree nearing perfection.

Two years after his graduation, Bennie was doing nicely as a freelance artist drawing illustrations for magazines.

Within a year's time he was being sought by editors all over the country.

He became famous over night. His signature, scrawled on the bottom of an illustration, instantly identified it as a work of fine artistry.

He stood out head and shoulders above others of the same following.

His name became a by-word in all the leading publishing houses, advertising agencies, art galleries, motion picture companies, newspaper syndicates.

Markle's Hurley Garage.

Floyd A. Markle and Jason Markle of town of Hurley have certified to the county clerk that they are conducting a business at Hurley under the name and style of Markle's Hurley Garage.

He was known from coast to coast. At twenty-five Bennie was nearing the peak of his career.

He had achieved fame and wealth greater than he had ever dreamed.

Yet it was all deserting.

He had worked hard, fought and overcome countless obstacles, faced and triumphed over adversity.

It was during the summer of that same year, following a winter which included, aside from eight hours of daily work, a constant round of illustrated lectures, dinners, parties of every description, weekends, as the guest of the foremost families of New York and other large cities, that Bennie decided to take a month off and return to Maplewood for a much needed rest.

He drove up from New York alone in his roadster.

And it was while he was rushing along through the hills of Connecticut, with his mind free for once of business and social engagements, that he thought of those days back in Ruggles' general store with Life and Bert and Joel.

He laughed aloud at the thought.

And suddenly, for no reason other than until now he had not found the time to contemplate the matter, he realized what a glibly and wholly trusting little shaver he'd been.

He recalled how he used to sit there, mouth ajar, eyes popping, while one of the three told a yarn that instantly distinguished the orator as a great and wise man.

How ridiculous it now seemed, how unimportant and insignificant those men were in the great scheme of things.

Bennie wondered what they must think of him, now that he was famous.

There was probably some other youngster who, not unlike himself, sat in wonder and awe while the general store sages told great yarns of the days when the now famous Bennie Markham sat in their midst and drew pictures for them on the backs of order blanks.

The picture thus conjured was amusing, and it occurred to Bennie that it might be still more amusing to visit these old cronies during his visit in Maplewood, give them a treat, so to speak.

The thought became father to the act. Two days after his arrival at home, Bennie wheeled his roadster up to Life Ripley's garage and ordered gas.

Life himself operated the crank, and when the tank was filled Bennie tendered a $10 bill and grunted.

"Hello, Life," he said.

Life looked up and nodded indifferently.

"Lo, Bennie," he said, digging into his overalls' pocket.

"How's tricks?"

"Bennie was a good deal disappointed. Life had expressed neither surprise nor pleasure.

He acted quite as if the youth was an every-day customer.

Bennie drove slowly away. Somewhat cooled in ardor, but nevertheless anxious to carry out his scheme, he strolled into Bert Morgan's barber shop, and found Bert there alone.

Bert was more agreeable. He shook hands and admitted being glad to see the boy back. And after the father was well spread he even asked: "What you doin', Bennie? Ain't seen you around much?"

Bennie did his best to be casual. "Why, I'm drawing pictures, Bert. You've probably seen some in the magazines."

Bert compressed his lips. "Humm. Yes. But I meant, what are you earning a living at? Ain't yuh workin'?"

Bennie was glad to get out of the place. He didn't call on Joel Ruggles. He went home instead, and there was a hurt look in his eyes. Robert Markham saw the look and smiled. He asked Bennie where he'd been, and when the boy told him, the older man placed an arm about his shoulder and said: "Son, you're famous and a great success in the world outside of your home town. But here in Maplewood you're still little Bennie Markham, who used to sit with eyes popping while the village wise men vied to impress you with their importance. It isn't natural for those men to admit now that you're any greater or wiser than they. Their pride is their forte."

And Bennie, looking into his father's face, knew that the wisest man in Maplewood at the present moment was Robert Markham.

Hail Discovery Made by German Scientists

By allowing the heart of a helium atom to "tune in" on the heart of an aluminum atom, creating in it a sympathetic vibration, physicists of the Carnegie Institution's department of terrestrial magnetism have smashed the aluminum heart or nucleus.

Experiments on the resonance smashing or disintegration of atoms were performed by Dr. M. Pose in Germany and the Carnegie scientists have confirmed this work and carried it further. It is found that when the attacking alpha particle or wave, which is the helium heart, has the proper energy it penetrates the other atom's nucleus. In this case the alpha particles of mass 4 from radium joined with aluminum of mass 27 and formed silicon of mass 30 and released hydrogen of mass 1 in the form of proton or wave particle of positive electricity.—Science Service.

Schubert Club Had James A. Reed Wed Program and Dance To Mrs. Bell Donnelly

Wednesday evening the Schubert Club gave a fine entertainment and dance at the Y. W. C. A. with a large and enthusiastic attendance for both features.

Miss Ruth Neal, president of the Schubert Club, announced the program, which included singing by the Misses Carolyn Port and Frieda Nickergall, accompanied by Miss Betty Heybrueck, followed by an up-to-date presentation of tap, clog and the dancing in costume, given by some of the younger pupils of Miss Helen Gathin's dancing classes.

The young people were heartily applauded as were Wilson Tinkle and Roger Mable who gave a clever, happy short skit.

The stage was then arranged for the presentation of the one-act play, "The Vengeance Heir," by Allan Davis, given by Mrs. Charles Terwilliger as Cheridah Gormley (Gram), Miss Agnes Smith as Clay Gormley, her grandson and the last man of her family; Hope Toverder, a neighbor girl, portrayed by Mrs. Cornelius Treadwell and Miss Ethel Hull as Lem Carmalt, the representative of the other side of the feud.

Mrs. Edgar N. Palen announced the dinner and somewhat prepared the audience for the tragic scene to follow, picturing the final chapter in a years' old feud of the southern mountains. The production was heartily received with generous applause.

After the entertainment the young people enjoyed a pre-Christmas dance, music being furnished by Jack Cashin's orchestra.

Kansas City, Dec. 14 (AP).—James A. Reed, who served Missouri in the United States Senate for 15 years, and his bride, the former Mrs. Bell Q. Donnelly, were on a honeymoon today as secretaries about their plans as they were before their marriage last night.

The wedding of the silver haired veteran of politics and Mrs. Donnelly, a wealthy garment manufacturer, was a surprise to the 20 guests who had assembled at the bride's apartment for a duck and venison dinner, a subscription.

Not until after the dinner, when Federal Judge John C. Fallock, who officiated, asked the guests to stand and he had entered into a discussion of marriage did the guests realize they were attending a wedding.

A Number of other bargains which do not appear in this advertisement, because there was not sufficient time to compose them, may be seen by calling at the store.

GOING Christmas shopping without knowing what you're going to buy is like trying to use a pay phone without a directory.

Going Christmas shopping without knowing what you're going to spend is like trying to use the phone without a nickel.

You may get through on the first—for the stores are full of pleasant surprises. But go hit or miss on spending—and either your Christmas list or your Christmas budget is bound to strike a snag.

The ad reading habit is invaluable at Christmas time. It lets you plan your list in advance. You know what you're going to give to whom. You know how much it's going to cost . . . down to the last little penny.

Reading the ads saves you many a weary footstep . . . Many a jostle and shove . . . many a disappointment. Reading the ads, you'll almost always find you can save a few dollars to buy a nicer gift for someone very special or to bank away for next Christmas.

And remember this! Advertised merchandise is always better merchandise. At Christmas time. And all the year 'round.

The Old Place Might Be Ramshackle, But It's Home To Cleveland Indians

Back to their old stamping grounds go the Indians, and are their slugs, happy to leave the vast Municipal stadium behind. That crowd scene is the kind they used to entertain at old League Park, in the dear, dead days when immortals like Nap Lajoie (upper) and Tris Speaker made it their headquarters.

Foresters Return Here For Match With Luckies Tonight

There will be two preliminary games. The first at 7 o'clock will be between the Irish Clock Five of Woburn and the seventh Ward Democrats, the second between the Senecas and Torsones of Poughkeepsie.

THE END

A woman called at a studio for a sitting. The photographer made negatives and promised proofs for the following day. The next day her husband called for the proofs, but the photographer showed him only one. The husband said: "My understanding was that there were to be two proofs."

"I did make two sittings of your wife," said the photographer, "but in one she held her lips apart and showed the end of her tongue."

"My goodness," gasped her husband. "Let me see that one. I didn't know there was an end to it!"—Fratric Farmer.

ENCOURAGEMENT

On Coming To

The professor went to a barber shop and got a shave. After the operation, he continued to occupy the chair; the barber thought he must have fallen asleep, and respectfully asked him if this were so.
